

Julie Grange

Administrative Assistant

With Taylor Johnson since: 2011

People around the office come to me for:

A bit of everything.

My guilty pleasure is: Ben & Jerry's Coffee Heath Bar Crunch or Karamel Sutra or Pistachio Pistachio or Bonnaroo Buzz. And Haagen-Dazs Pineapple Coconut.

Three words that describe me are: Reliable, flexible, kind

Favorite Chicago building: Chicago Cultural Center - All the rooms are beautiful but Preston Bradley Hall and the Tiffany dome are breathtaking.

Last good book I read: I've been reading books that my daughter is reading so we can discuss them. As a result, I am immersed in Young Adult literature and the last one I read was The Fault in Our Stars by John Green. It was wonderful.

On my iPod: Otis Redding is my all-time favorite artist and has the most songs on my iPod. I also have a mix of many genres but Indie Folk seems to get the most play recently.

My favorite app: I use Yelp all the time to find restaurants, although it seems to keep me from making any decision at all because I will keep reading reviews instead of getting anything to eat.

What I like most about TJ: TJ is family friendly.

The worst job I ever had was: Working the 3 to 9 pm shift after school at a catalogue ordering service. It was a cramped room with 40 phone lines and we took phone calls and orders for about 20 catalogues. It was stuffy, everyone smoked at their stations, and I dreaded the days when I would be assigned Line 1 – the phone would ring the moment I hung it up.
